The Information Costs of Climate Misinformation: Evidence from Global Financial Data

James Rice

Department of Government, University of Essex
Wivenhoe Park, Colchester CO4 3SQ, United Kingdom

Corresponding author: ricejames0@gmail.com
ORCID: https://orcid.org/0000-0001-9961-3461

Journal: Energy Economics
Article type: Research article

Funding

This research was supported by the Leverhulme Trust through the Sustainable Transitions – Governance, Ecological Management and Society Doctoral Training Programme at the University of Essex. The funder had no role in the study design, data collection, analysis or interpretation, manuscript preparation, or decision to submit.

Competing interests

The author reports no competing interests.

Ethics

Ethics approval for the Meta Content Library analysis was granted by the University of Essex.

Data and code

The replication repository is https://github.com/jameskrice7/climate-misinfo-information-costs. It contains the financial analysis, fixed classifier scores, input audits, generated tables and figures, and the source of the submission documents. Raw Meta Content Library post text is access-controlled. Financial data originate from licensed Refinitiv observations.